1. We set up a homepage of this activity and invited teams of students and people from society to support the students's dreams.

2. We built up an organization to support the students's dreams and set up the supporting condition on the internet as a mailing list.

In the program

3. First of all, we had a two-days Seminar for all people relating this activity to explain the theme of this program.

The students mainly learned the how to grow themselves to be creative and realize their dream like below.

*How it is substantial to serve for others or society more than just acting based on the self-desire.

*How to solve the problems by own action without depending to the others or criticizing others.

*How to never give up achieving own dream and keep thinking positively and solving the problems by themselves.

*The importance of challenging to the dream and creating impressive value for the society, and how to present to the others.

The people from society, "supporters", learned additionally, how to motivate the others and how to support mutually, to be a better supporter for the students.

4. We provided the opportunities four times for all student teams to exchange opinions with supporters and discuss the problems to realize their dreams.

5. Between the chances to exchange opinions, we set up the opportunity to exchange opinions with supporters individually several times. The supports advised for more individual problems and kept motivating students not to let them give up their dreams.

6. Finally, students presented their dreams; that they made by themselves to create positive change for the society, based on the technique that is called "Dream Presentation" a method of presentation to move audiences's mind by speaking with picture images and music.

After the program

7. We had a debriefing session of the students after moving into the real action to realize their dream.

8. We published proposal document to tell the result from this program.

9. After that, this program was developed widely in a prefecture, as an opportunity that young people speak out their dream, the first convention will set up in 2013.

結果：

JCI Niigata had promoted JCI Mission and JCI Vision through this program:

1.Training of young people

Young people drew a vision each other to create positive change to the society. And they created the method to realize the vision.

2.Creating a supporting network

The supporting network which is organized by members of society including the members of JCI Niigata trained young people to be able to contribute to the society.

3.Creating an opportunity to start action

Young people learned the method to realize their dreams from their supporters. Some of them moved to the action after the presentation. One member proposed the society that disabled people can contribute to the work more than people with healthy body by using artificial robot arms. The person realized one of the dreams that solves trouble of people or society by using technology.

Before this program, the students told that they did not have dreams or they only had a dream like fill out their self-desire.

However, it was not true that the students had no dreams. They just did not know how to challenge to their dreams. So, through this program, they drew up the story by themselves to create positive change in their society.

1. To spread out the idea of local supply and local consumption of energy, challenge to the most hardest marathon in the world held on Atacama desert by creating electric energy as an ene-runner.

2. Proposal of providing gamification for the medical care of the mental disease. It is using analysis of own action from virtual space to solve the problem in real world.

3. The existence of uninhabited stores is a symbol of peace in Japan. By using Information Technology, develop uninhabited stores more matching into modern society as a symbolic service of world peace.

4. Leaving the record of own life to the future by digital data, people can find out or adjust own living way by reviewing the past.

5. For supporting children of uneconomic countries, not only building a guesthouse but also keeping the connection by using application software of smartphone. Then, keep teaching children about world economy from real communication through the application.

6. To make a borderless society for disabled people, develop robot suit to extend their work ability and increase the number of employment.

The young people presented their dream-plans to the society *finished the Atacama desert marathon as an ene-runner, now planning next challenge to spread out the idea of local supply and local consumption of energy *are preparing to establish a company necessary to provide the service that they drew in dream-plans.

*are preparing to go abroad to know about the real condition of developing countries as a volunteer.

*are planning to go abroad to study high level of technology in the field.

考察や推奨

One of the advantages of JCI is human network which stores good knowledge and experiences. We use the advantage to learn what to do to create positive change for the society.

We provided this program because it included all factors to think of creating positive change for the society.

The best method to learn something is teaching it to the others.
When we teach something, we have to learn much more before the teaching. Therefore, we have effort and learn good knowledge more than assumption.

Assistants can learn how to create talented people to create positive change into the society through this program which is using the method of dream-plans presentation.

We achieved the contents of JCI Mission.

We provided this program to achieve our mission that let People grow up to be active citizens and be Jaycees who create positive change for the society.

Result more than the assumption:

1. All students started drawing dream-plan to serve for the society or the others.

2. After the presentation, there was a scene that students started forming circle and promised to realized their dream each other.

3. Some assistant of this program were influenced from this activity and tried developing this program more widely. As a result of it, Dream-plan presentation in Niigata was established.

Factor and Device:

1. To let students learn about the meaning to serve for the society or the others at the beginning to be a talented person to create positive change for the society. And set up the condition that they can receive consultation.

2. To organize supporters and to let supporters work with students to draw their dream plans together. It worked mutually well to be more serious.

3. By letting supporters keeping in touch with students's plan making, they are influenced from young peoples's emotion and step into the program more.

4. It was easily developed as a community program because we organized supports with many people from society, not JCI members.

	Result out of the assumption:
 <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Because supports listened to the young people's voice earnestly, lots of great idea like something no one achieved, something need very high technology, and something pointing out the true nature of the problems were flowed out.
 2. Because we decided the rules that supports cannot deny the ideas from students and advise to improve their plans, consultations were progressed very positively.

	Points of this activity:
 <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. What we took in the world wide method of dream-plan presentation that is very useful to develop mutual support to create better society.
 2. What we set up the opportunities to learn about the factors to be talented person who creates positive change for the society.
 3. What we invited many people from society to aim this program develop in the community.

 message for the JCI members:
 <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The importance of keeping assistance for this program, even if the members in charge are changed from single fiscal year system of JCI.
